The first “All Art and Cultural Heritage Law Conference” aims to bring together all specialists active in the field of art and cultural heritage law. More specifically, this conference is based on the participation of scholars that run teaching programs and research projects, on the one hand, and practitioners that work in museums, law firms and art trade and advisory companies, on the other. Its objective is to address the three themes identified below with a view to identifying and defining solutions and common grounds. Above all, this workshop seeks to lay the foundations of a long-lasting synergy between academia and practice.
